Dear Educators,

San Diego Civic Dance Company invites you to an exciting performance in the beautiful and historic Casa del Prado Theatre in Balboa Park. Collage 2010 features dance pieces inspired by famous works of art and an impressive array of dance disciplines, breathtaking costumes, imaginative set pieces and gorgeous theatrical lighting. Post-performance, students will receive a behind-the-scenes look at the Company's creative process; how dance numbers were created, stage lighting and music, as well as a Q & A with select dancers and creative team members.

Location: Casa del Prado Theater, Village Place, Balboa Park

Performance Friday, February 19, 2010

Date/Time: 9:30 am and 11:30 am,

One hour program, including a ten-minute question
& answer session

Audience: Grades K through 12

Tickets: $5.00 per student.

One complimentary teacher/chaperone ticket per five student tickets paid.

Reservations: Advance reservations are required.

Our student education program is designed to meet State of California Department of Education Content Standards. To help connect the performance to your classroom activities, we provide specially-designed "SDCDArtsNotes"; a study guide containing background on the performance pieces and artists, as well as the artwork the pieces are based on; classroom activities that engage students in reading, writing, listening, analyzing, and creating; resources for further study, and information for students about their roles and responsibilities as members of the audience.

We look forward to your students spending quality time in Balboa Park and receiving a great introduction to the performing arts in an effective, fun, and creative way.

Sincerely,

Lola Thomas & Marjorie Keim-Lopez
